

CLERGY AND LAITY HONOR DR. HAMLIN

Beloved Pastor Laid to Rest
With Requiems of Affection.

"Leader of Men," Preacher of Funeral Sermon
Calls Him.

In the presence of hundreds of friends, who filled every new white man's church, unable to gain admission to the church, the funeral services for the remains of the Rev. Dr. Teunis Slingerland Hamlin, held yesterday afternoon in the Church of the Covenant, which he had helped to build, dedicated, and loved during his twenty years' ministry. From all parts of Washington and old gathered to pay homage to the memory of their leader and friend, persons representative of every class, in a common cause of sorrow. Almost all of the Presbyterian clergymen in the city were present, as well as a large number of ministers of other denominations, who joined with the congregation in a tribute to the dead pastor.

The profusion of floral tributes and their fragrance gave the sanctuary the appearance of an Easter Sunday, or the day upon which it was dedicated by the now departed pastor. A beautiful expanse of floral offering lay in front of the pulpit. The towers of orchids and lilies stood at both ends of the platform, covered with small clusters, while the choir was hidden by clusters of roses, ferns, and lilies. The black-draped bier was a bed of violets.

"Life Work Preparatory."

At the first strain of Handel's "Largo" the session of the church, accompanied by a committee from the elders and trustees, preceded the bier up the aisle. Mrs. Hamlin entered with her elder son, followed by friends and relatives. The Rev. Charles Alvin Smith pronounced the invocation. This was followed by a hymn by a quartet composed of Mrs. Price, Mrs. Browning, W. B. McFarland and Frank Reside. The Rev. Joseph T. Kelly, of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, read from an epistle of St. Paul a lesson on the union of God and man.

The Rev. Wilton Merle Smith, D. D., pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, New York, preached the funeral sermon, taking as his theme, "The Divine Service." He referred feelingly to the life work of his friend, Dr. Hamlin, which he said was but a preparatory work for the divine service to which he had now been called. He also spoke of the love borne Dr. Hamlin not only in Washington, but everywhere he was known, saying: "He was a man to be trusted instinctively, his sterling worth, his patience, his breadth of vision, his indefatigable energy and the ability which marked him as a leader of men drew others to him, and confidence in him implicitly, a sympathizing friend to all in trouble." He paid tribute to the great work he had accomplished here in Washington, and the loss this city had sustained.

Tributes of Love.

The Rev. Charles Alvin Smith then read a number of letters from Dr. Hamlin which gave an insight into his love and devotion to his work and his congregation. He also paid tribute to the character of Mrs. Hamlin, "a helpful, ideal mate for an exceptional husband." Prayer was offered by Dr. E. F. Bittinger, and after another hymn, Chopin's "Funeral March," was played and the body was carried to the hearse and taken to Rock Creek Cemetery, followed by a large number of friends.

The active paladins, from the Men's Society of the church, were: Frederick A. Fenning, William H. Baldwin, Andrew Y. Bradley, Allan O. Clemons, Walter M. Gilbert, Gilbert H. Grosvener, Brainerd W. Parker, and Stanton Penfield Poole.

The members of the session and representatives of the board of trustees and the deacons's board, an honorary escort, these being Henry A. Presser, Archibald Greenlee, Frederick L. Moore, E. Southern, Parker, W. E. Bryan, Claudius B. Jewell, Stanton Judkins Peelle, John W. Foster, H. B. F. MacFarland, Alfred R. Quattle, Joseph S. Chamberlain, George M. Whitwell, Frederick A. Ellis, Charles F. Nesbit, Henry Le Due, William S. Carroll, Charles H. Butler, E. Curtis, William J. Plutcher, Rudolph Kaufmann, George X. McLaughlin, Charles D. Wacoott, Brainerd H. Warner, and Justice Harlan.

A committee, headed by Chairman John W. Foster, is planning a memorial service at the Church of the Covenant for Sunday next.

SPOKANE PEOPLE DEMAND BRAND NEW WESTERN STATE

Portions of Washington,
Idaho and Oregon to Form It.

Chamber of Commerce
Makes Elaborate Report on Project.

SPOKANE, Wash., April 22.—Academics may have seemed to outsiders the discussion of plans to form a new state out of parts of Idaho, Washington, and Oregon with this city as the center, the project has taken on definiteness and force as a result of a report to the Spokane chamber of commerce, just made by the "new State" committee and given out to the public after adoption.

The report reviews the conditions that brought about the present unnatural arrangement, advances reasons for making a new State, which many want to have called Lincoln, and suggests the boundary lines. The report says in part:

Cutting Off Northern Oregon.
"The then Territory of Oregon extended from the present California line to the Canadian boundary, and it was found that the people living north of the Columbia river were too remote from the capital, which was at Salem, in southern Oregon.

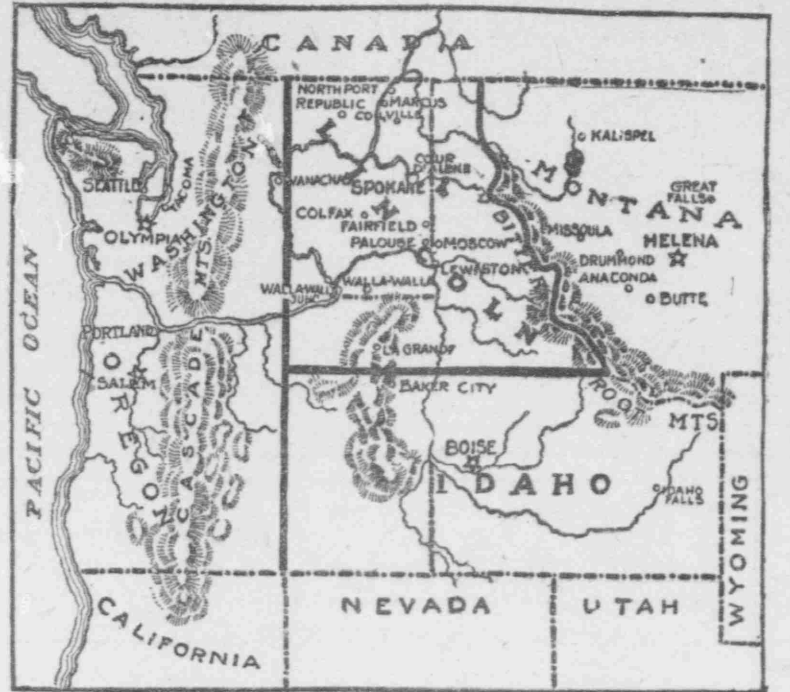

"This led to agitation in the early fifties for cutting off what was then northern Oregon and the creation of the Territory of Washington.
"Congress in 1853 cut off Washington from Oregon. The southern boundary of Washington was the Columbia river to Walla, and thence east to the Rocky mountains, thus including northern Idaho and a part of Montana. At its organization its population was only 3,565. Of this population only a few hundred were in eastern Washington. It was necessary that it should be attached to some political organization and Olympia was at that time a more natural capital for these few hundred than some points east of the Rocky mountains would have been.

Swarm of Gold Seekers.

"But with the discovery of gold in northern Idaho came a remarkable change of conditions. Twenty or thirty thousand gold seekers swarmed into northern Idaho. At that time the population of eastern Washington was greater than that of western Washington. These miners felt the necessity of a better form of government, and on their petition the Territory of Idaho was created in 1863 by Congress. It included all of the present State of Idaho, all of the present State of Montana, and the northern three-fifths of the present State of Wyoming.
"The first capital was located at Lewiston and remained there three or four years, when the rich gold discoveries in northern Idaho brought about the removal to Boise. It is thus seen that the clash of interest between northern Idaho and southern Idaho began almost immediately after the creation of the Territory in 1863.
"This agitation continued for many years and culminated in 1888, when Congress passed an act, cutting off the Panhandle of Idaho and attaching it to

FEAR OF BRIGAND PREVENTS TRIAL

ROME, April 22.—Fear of a brigand has quashed his trial at a Sicilian assize court. The famous brigand Palla should have been tried (in his absence) for killing two gendarmes, and also for contempt of court. But because the brigand was still at large, the jury was afraid even to discuss the case.
The jurymen petitioned the president of the court to adjourn the case, because the owners and fathers of families, while Palla was at large. If he was captured they offered to give "proof of their courage and independence."
From this predicament the president invented the lines of a judge, who was really in perfect health, and adjourned the case indefinitely.
This was in December, 1896, and Palla, who had been captured untried, and untried. Last December the Sicilian law authorities requested the Italian supreme court to have the case tried elsewhere, and it has been decided to bring it to Reggio, Calabria.

MAP SHOWING BOUNDARY LINES OF THE PROPOSED NEW STATE.

Washington. Unfortunately this act was vetoed by President Cleveland, and the disappointment of the people of the Inland Empire.

"This agitation was kept alive by the fact that Idaho is cut in two by a wild range of mountains, which have interposed an impassable barrier between the two populous sections of the State. There is absolutely no railroad connection over these mountains and only the crudest of trails and wagon roads. This people of northern Idaho, to reach their capital, are under the necessity of leaving their State, going into the State of Washington, passing thence into Oregon, thence out of Oregon into southern Idaho, and traveling several hundred miles over the desert region to Boise. This entails an enormous waste of time and expense upon the people of northern Idaho and the business interests of southern Idaho.
"The conviction has deepened in the minds of close observers of both sides of the mountains that this conflict of political interests is a disturbing influence in the commercial and industrial relations of the sections, and that a readjustment of State lines as nature and the best interests of the people have dictated would eliminate the friction and bring about a more cordial feeling between the people of eastern and western Washington. Under those conditions State pride would be allowed to expand to the greatest extent, and in place of lamentable rivalries and jealousies which now exist there would come about a friendly rivalry between the new State and the old.

Bringing Matter Before People.

"It has been suggested, to bring the matter before the people, that the forty-fifth degree of latitude, or the present northern line of Wyoming extended, be designated as the northern boundary of the State of Idaho, and the 120th degree of longitude, or eastern boundary of California, carried north until it intersects the forty-fifth degree of latitude be designated as the western boundary of Idaho, and that the eastern California line, carried to British Columbia, be designated as the eastern boundary of the State of Washington, thereby leaving the new State to be hereafter named, from which a central city should be selected as a capital, said State comprising the Panhandle of Idaho, northern Oregon, and eastern Washington."

"PRESIDENT RIGHT, CARNEGIE WRONG"

—The Rev. Mr. Beattie

Illinois Preacher Upholds Righteousness Idea in Peace Pleas.

CHICAGO, April 22.—Theories advanced by Andrew Carnegie, Jane Addams, and others at the national peace conference held in New York were considered by the Rev. Robert H. Beattie in a sermon at the First Presbyterian Church in Austin.

"The Christian basis of peace is the only possible basis," said the pastor. "Roosevelt is right and Carnegie was wrong. Roosevelt declared that righteousness, not justice, is the warrant for peace."

"When Miss Addams suggests that ignorance is the cause of war," he said, "We may credit her with all sincerity, but must recognize that she is wrong, or else has read into the word a moral content which it by no means possesses. Possession of information or the lack of it never is a cause of action."
"But we are not yet at the final basis of peace. Until men do right, peace will not prevail. Until men love right, they will not right."

ST. LOUIS CAPITALISTS TO BUILD WALSH ROADS

ST. LOUIS, April 22.—John Scullin, multi-millionaire, builder of railroads, stockholder in steam and electric lines and banker, said today that the dispatch from Chicago announcing that St. Louis capitalists, with financiers of New York and Chicago, had arranged to provide funds to complete the construction of the railroads known as the "Walsh" roads, is true.

The plan is said to be for a St. Louis, New York, and Chicago syndicate to subscribe with Mr. Walsh $20,000,000 to complete the Chicago Southern and the Southern Indiana railroads.
Mr. Scullin said that he and two other St. Louis financiers are considering Mr. Walsh's proposition and he intimated that they are well predisposed toward it. He would not disclose the names of the other two St. Louis financiers.

HIGHWAY ROBBERS CAVALRY PRIVATES?

Two Soldiers Arrested,
Charged With Holding Up Negro.

Charged with robbery, William Court, twenty-one years of age, is a prisoner at the Tenth precinct police station, and Arnold Colt is held at the guard house at Fort Myer awaiting a warrant on the same charge from this jurisdiction. Both young men are members of the Thirtieth Cavalry, and are said to be of good families living in this city.

They were arrested upon complaint of Edgar Kenny, a colored man, living at 776 Harvard street northwest. While on his way home late last night, Kenny was crossing a vacant lot at Eleventh and Fairmount streets, when he was accosted by two men dressed as soldiers. One of them, he says, grabbed him and held a handkerchief over his eyes, while the other went through his pockets, robbing him of $10.27.

Court was arrested by Policeman Bradshaw, and when searched at the station house the money was found in his pocket. Colt will probably be brought here this afternoon, and the two men are being held in the Police Court tomorrow.

can be cured. To those afflicted this conveys a wonderful message. Though common, it is only a short time since it was considered incurable. The discovery that it was purely a nervous disorder has led to the application of the great nerve restorer.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve with the happy result that thousands have been completely cured, and others are being cured every day.

"In the year '92 I was stricken with epilepsy. Doctors treated me for several years, but I grew worse, would have such awful fits. I cannot tell my awful sufferings. A druggist recommended Dr. Miles' Nerve, and I bought a bottle, and found it helped me, and I took three more and am cured. I had only one light spell after I commenced taking it. I do hope the time will come when everybody will know that your medicine cures these awful fits.—JOHN LEWIS, Clarion, Pa.
"Dr. Miles' Nerve is sold under a guarantee that your druggist will refund your money if first bottle does not benefit."

What Malt Is to Beer

Malt is barley, with its life-germ artificially grown. Malt gives body, strength and quality to beer.

The better the malt, the more satisfying the beer.

The Pabst Eight-Day Malt-Processing Process follows Nature—it grows the barley slowly, thus preserving all of the nutritious food properties of the grain, and transmitting them to
